Democratic Support

This map shows areas of strong support for two democratic candidates in the 1994 election. Bob Kerrey was seeking re-election to the Senate and won. Peter Hoagland was attempting to be re-elected to the House, but lost. A comparison of the precincts where they received strong support shows that Kerrey had much stronger support in western Omaha. Support for Hoagland was almost exclusively in the eastern part of the city.

Republican Support

This map shows the strongest support for the two republican candidates in the 1994 election. Christensen upset the incumbent, Peter Hoagland, to be elected to Congress. Stoney lost to the incumbent Bob Kerrey. Strong support for both candidates is almost exclusively in the western part of the city, with the exception of Fairacres and Ponca Hills.